FAQs

Question 1: Can I use Cricut Mug Press with non-Cricut mugs?

Answer: This Cricut machine is designed for its mug blanks. The press is rigorously tested with these types of blanks to ensure successful heat transfers. Also, Cricut mugs have a polymer coating, making them most suitable for pressing. Hence, if you want to make a mug that lasts longer than usual, you should prefer Cricut mug blanks only.

Question 2: What are the dos and don'ts of using Cricut Mug Press?

Answer: The following are some safety measures you must consider while using this Cricut machine:

1. Use the machine in a well-ventilated indoor area.
2. Since the machine operates at high temperatures, be cautious when putting the mug inside it.
3. Use masks as you can experience odors and vapors.
4. Use spectacles to protect your eyes to avoid vapors entering your eyes.

Question 3: Why is my Cricut Mug Press smelling?

Answer: The Cricut machine's heat plate is made of different kinds of materials that can make you smell an odor when it heats up. However, this odor will diminish on its own when you keep using it. It is normal to smell an odor in your first use. Don't worry; it will diminish after some time.
